

Contents (overview)

1 Introduction (Dietmar Rost, Erhard Stölting)	1
Part I Regional identity in three Polish voivodships: Świętokrzyskie, Śląskie (Silesia) and Warmińsko-Mazurskie Tomasz Zarycki in cooperation with Anna Tucholska
2 Introduction	25
3 The Śląskie (Silesian) voivodship	47
4 The Świętokrzyskie voivodship	97
5 The Warmińsko-Mazurskie voivodship	125
6 Conclusion	158
Part II Regional identity in North-East Italy Paolo Pasi & Ivan Pedrazzini
7 Introduction	163
8 Trentino-South Tyrol	181
9 Friuli Venezia Giulia (I. Pedrazzini)	224
10 Veneto (P. Pasi)	242
11 Lega Nord: Padanian identity, regional identities and localism (P. Pasi)	261
12 Nord Est: an alternative proposal of regionalism (P. Pasi)	269
13 Conclusion (P. Pasi & I. Pedrazzini)	279
Part III Regional identity in the German Land Brandenburg Dietmar Rost
14 Introduction	283
15 Regional television: The making of "The Brandenburgers"	329
16 Brandenburg in school curricula and textbooks	362
17 Representations of history – attempts to legitimate a new region..	391
18 Social, historical and cultural sciences and regional identity	423
19 Brandenburg and the foreign: Xenophobia, antiracism, Sorbs and Euroregions. Open regionalism?	432
20 Conclusion	447
Part IV Social science approaches to collective identity, essentialism, constructionism and strategic essentialism Dietmar Rost
21 Collective identity, criticism of the concept and identity politics...	451
22 Attempts to conceptualise collective identities beyond the dichotomy of essentialism versus constructionism	477

Contents

1 Introduction (Dietmar Rost, Erhard Stölting)	1
1.1 Regions, regional identity and history	5
1.2 Strategic essentialism as a heuristic concept	9
1.3 The case studies	11
1.4 Comparative conclusions	16

Part I

Regional identity in three Polish voivodships: Świętokrzyskie, Śląskie (Silesia) and Warmińsko-Mazurskie

Tomasz Zarycki in cooperation with Anna Tucholska

2 Introduction	25
2.1 The post-communist transformation and regional identity	25
2.2 The historical heritage	26
2.3 The debate over the administrative reform in the 1990s	33
2.4 Regional identity and regional movements in Poland	42
2.5 The choice of regions	44
2.6 Regional education	44
3 The Śląskie (Silesian) voivodship	47
3.1 Historical background	47
3.2 Geography of the new Silesian voivodship	52
3.3 The Silesian debate on regional identity	56
3.3.1 Kazimierz Kutz and his followers	59
3.3.2 The Upper Silesian Union	67
3.3.3 The Autonomy Movement of Silesia and its offspring	74
3.3.4 The critiques of Silesian regionalists	91
4 The Świętokrzyskie voivodship	97
4.1 Historical background	97
4.2 The "defence" of the voivodship	98
4.3 The reinforcement of the voivodship image and prestige	106
5 The Warmińsko-Mazurskie voivodship	125
5.1 Historical background	125
5.2 The making of the region	126
5.3 Region without identity: the heritage of the communist period? ...	128
5.4 The Elite Discourse	135
5.4.1 "Borussia's" multicultural vision of the region	136
5.4.2 Wspólnota Mazurska (The Mazurian Community)	139

5.4.3	The uses of the Prussian Heritage	140
5.4.4	A re-evaluation of the German and Communist period heritage	144
5.4.5	The external dependence	148
5.4.6	The "defenders" of the native inhabitants of Prussia	149
5.5	Organisations of ethnic minorities	152
5.5.1	Germans	153
5.5.2	Ukrainians	154
5.6	Other relevant organisations	155
5.6.1	The association "Pojezierze"	155
5.6.2	The Kętrzyński Centre	155
5.6.3	The Warmian-Mazurian University	156
6	Conclusion	158

Part II

Regional identity in North-East Italy

Paolo Pasi & Ivan Pedrazzini

7	Introduction	163
7.1	Italian history and regions (P. Pasi).....	164
7.1.1	From Unity to First World War: a centralised new state	164
7.1.2	From the First World War to the Second World War: the desire for regionalism and the fascist centralisation	168
7.1.3	The Republic and the regions with special statute	169
7.1.4	Lega Nord and federalism	172
7.2	Regions with special statute in North-East Italy (I. Pedrazzini)	174
7.2.1	Linguistic minorities	174
7.2.2	Legislative recognition of linguistic minorities	178
7.2.3	Regional autonomies	178
7.2.4	The debate about the future of special statutes	179
8	Trentino-South Tyrol	181
8.1	A divided region (P. Pasi & I. Pedrazzini).....	181
8.1.1	History	181
8.1.2	The future of the Region	184
8.2	Euroregion Tirol-Südtirol/Alto Adige-Trentino (P. Pasi)	186
8.2.1	Twenty years of proposals and debates	186
8.2.2	A region in the mind?	189
8.3	South Tyrol. A model of autonomy and its changes (I. Pedrazzini).....	192
8.3.1	Political parties and the representation of ethnic groups	193

8.3.2	Institutionalised protection of ethnic groups and new discussions about that	196
8.3.3	Linguistic groups and school: The debate on multilingual education	199
8.3.4	Divided historical memories and some steps toward a common history of South Tyrol	209
8.4	Trentino: old and new autonomist movements (P. Pasi)	214
8.4.1	Two centuries of autonomism	214
8.4.2	The autonomist parties	216
8.4.3	History, culture and social science	218
8.4.4	The Margherita: a territorial party	219
8.5	Conclusion (P. Pasi & I. Pedrazzini)	221
9	Friuli Venezia Giulia (I. Pedrazzini)	224
9.1	History	224
9.2	"Friûl" as a political and cultural project	226
9.2.1	The Friulian movement for autonomy	226
9.2.2	Friuli and Trieste: two poles of autonomy	227
9.2.3	Language and culture as bases of identity	230
9.2.4	The infrastructure of the promotion and protection of Friulian language and culture	231
9.3	Multilingualism and multiculturalism – new legitimations for Friuli Venezia Giulia's autonomy?	235
9.3.1	A project widely shared	236
9.3.2	Native cultures and the menace of the foreign	238
9.3.3	Slovenian minority rights and the persistence of nationalist views	239
9.4	Conclusion	241
10	Veneto (P. Pasi)	242
10.1	History and culture	242
10.1.1	History	242
10.1.2	Internal differences	243
10.1.3	Cultural institutions and associations	245
10.2	Images of the region from 1950 to 1990	247
10.2.1	An underdeveloped area and some anticipation	247
10.2.2	Local history and popular culture as bases of Venetian identity	248
10.2.3	The Società Filologica Veneta and the Venetisti	251
10.2.4	The 90s and the centrality of "identity" in political debate	254
10.3	Institutionalising Venetian identity	254
10.3.1	A Ministry for identity	255
10.3.2	The promotion of identity at school	257
10.3.3	Proposals for a new regional statute	259
10.4	Conclusion	260

11 Lega Nord: Padanian identity, regional identities and localism
(P. Pasi)	261
11.1 Changing images	261
11.1.1 The autonomist leagues	261
11.1.2 The foundation of Lega Nord and first references on Padania	262
11.1.3 The separatist phase	264
11.1.4 Devolution and anti-immigration	265
11.2 Localism, economic growth and the question of immigration.
The case of Treviso	266
11.3 Conclusion	268
12 Nord Est: an alternative proposal of regionalism (P. Pasi)	269
12.1 Previous concepts: Tre Venezie and Venetian culture	269
12.2 The emergence of Nord Est as a new concept and the role of the newspaper Il Gazzettino	270
12.3 Nord Est: a project focusing on economy and political co-operation	273
12.3.1 The Centro Studi Nord Est	273
12.3.2 Ivo Diamanti, the Fondazione Nord Est and entrepreneurs	274
12.3.3 Nord Est and politics	277
12.4 Conclusion	278
13 Conclusion (P. Pasi & I. Pedrazzini)	279

Part III

Regional identity in the German Land Brandenburg

Dietmar Rost

14 Introduction	283
14.1 The establishment of new Länder in East Germany	285
14.1.1 The German Länder and their history	285
14.1.2 How the idea of establishing Länder came up in East Germany	289
14.1.3 The choice of the Länder to be established	292
14.1.4 Discussion	301
14.2 Land Brandenburg – its establishing, history, and public sphere	307
14.2.1 The establishing of Land Brandenburg	307
14.2.2 Brandenburg and Prussian history	313
14.2.3 The public sphere and social structure in Brandenburg	315

15 Regional television: The making of "The Brandenburgers"	329
15.1 Excursus: Media studies of British Cultural Studies
– a rediscovery of text analysis	330
15.2 "The Brandenburgers", a serial on history	334
15.2.1 The context	334
15.2.2 The opening sequence – an invitation to a multi-perspective viewing	338
15.2.3 The narration of history	343
15.2.4 Functions of the companion commenting the narration	349
15.2.5 A second companion: Theodor Fontane	353
15.2.6 Reflexivity	354
15.2.7 "The Brandenburgers" – who are they?, who are not?	355
15.2.8 Preferred readings and open ends	357
15.3 Conclusions	359
16 Brandenburg in school curricula and textbooks	362
16.1 Excursus: Scientific debates on "small space" in German school teaching and the notion of Heimat	364
16.1.1 Small space in West German- and in GDR-schooling	365
16.1.2 A controversy about small space in schooling	366
16.1.3 The notion of Heimat	369
16.2 Brandenburg in Brandenburg Curricula	371
16.2.1 Geography in primary stage schooling	372
16.2.2 History in secondary stage I schooling	376
16.2.3 Conclusions regarding the curricula	378
16.3 School textbooks of geography in class 5	378
16.3.1 Terra	379
16.3.2 Other textbooks	383
16.4 Prussia at school	385
16.5 A new and different curriculum for geography	388
16.6 Conclusions	389
17 Representations of history – attempts to legitimate a new region	391
17.1 Prussia	392
17.1.1 Prussian tolerance	394
17.1.2 The Prussian year	396
17.1.3 Could "Prussia" be a name for Brandenburg or a merged Brandenburg/Berlin?	400
17.1.4 The House of the Brandenburg-Prussian History	404
17.1.5 The Potsdam Garrison church	407
17.1.6 Krongut Bornstedt – something like a Prussian Disneyworld	413
17.1.7 Conclusions	414

17.2 Contemporary history	417
17.2.1 Nachwendezeit, the period following the Wende	417
17.2.2 The Wende and the formation of the new Land	418
17.2.3 The GDR past	420
17.2.4 National Socialism	421
17.3 Conclusions	422
18 Social, historical and cultural sciences and regional identity	423
18.1 Academic historiography: Regional history (Landes- und Regionalgeschichte)	423
18.2 Social research institutes, social researchers	427
18.2.1 Ten theses on Brandenburg identity	427
18.2.2 Advice for campaigns preparing the states' marriage	429
18.3 Forum Zukunft Brandenburg	429
18.4 Conclusions	431
19 Brandenburg and the foreign: Xenophobia, antiracism, Sorbs and Euroregions. Open regionalism?	432
19.1 Xenophobia and "tolerant Brandenburg"	432
19.1.1 "Tolerant Brandenburg"	435
19.1.2 Fighting xenophobia without focusing on Brandenburg	436
19.2 Sorbs	439
19.3 Euroregion Viadrina and other projects of German-Polish understanding and co-operation	443
20 Conclusion	447

Part IV

Social science approaches to collective identity, essentialism, constructionism and strategic essentialism

Dietmar Rost

21 Collective identity, criticism of the concept and identity politics	451
21.1 Collective identity, problems of a concept (Niethammer)	454
21.2 Excursus: Nationalism as an example for essentialist identity politics	457
21.3 Essentialism and social constructionism (Benhabib)	458
21.4 Variations of constructionist approaches	462
21.4.1 Aspects, grades and objects of constructionism (Hacking)	462
21.4.2 Types of constructionism (Rudy)	466

21.5	The discussion of primordialism as an example for misleading discussions on essentialism and constructionism	469
21.6	Identity politics and social theory (Calhoun)	470
21.7	A first conclusion	474
22	Attempts to conceptualise collective identities beyond the dichotomy of essentialism versus constructionism	477
22.1	Strategic essentialism: essentialism legitimated politically (Spivak, Fuss)	477
22.2	Universalism as an alternative to essentialism (Klinger)	485
22.3	Essentialism and anti-essentialism as supplements (Smith)	486
22.4	Old and new identities (Hall)	488
22.5	A critique of the anti-essentialist criticism of multiculturalism (Modood)	494
22.6	Critical realism's moderate essentialism and the question of causality (Sayer and Bader)	497
22.7	Conclusions	500
	References	505