

Table of contents

List of abbreviations and acronyms	xiv
List of tables	xvi
List of figures	xvii
Abstract.....	xviii
1 Introduction.....	1
1.1. Relevance of the subject and problem statement.....	2
1.1.1. Why do non-signature and ratification of multilateral agreements matter?.....	3
1.1.2. Why bother about states' behavior?.....	5
1.1.3. Why do regional organizations deserve particular attention?.....	6
1.1.4. Rationale behind selecting the African Union as a case study.....	8
1.2. Objective of the study and research questions.....	12
1.3. Outline of the dissertation.....	13
2. Preparing the ground.....	21
2.1. African Union: how did we get there?.....	22
2.1.1. Creation of the OAU and the non-interference principle.....	22
2.1.2. The rise and fall of the OAU.....	24
2.2. The new African Union: institutions in comparative perspective.....	27
2.2.1. The AU Assembly of Heads of State and Government.....	28
2.2.2. The Council of Ministers.....	29
2.2.3. The AU Commission.....	30
2.2.4. Young Pan-African Parliament as part of the legislative body of African integration.....	32
2.2.5. The Court of Justice in African integration.....	33
2.2.6. The AU Peace and Security Council.....	35
2.3. African development agenda: NEPAD and the APRM.....	36
2.4. The AU budget in comparative perspective.....	37

2.5. Summary	39
3. Definition of terms, literature review and theoretical framework	41
3.1. Definition of terms	42
3.1.1. Agreement	42
3.1.2. Signature and ratification (SaR)	43
3.1.3. Cascade.....	44
3.1.4. Leadership	44
3.2. Literature review	45
3.2.1. States' behavior towards agreements of international organizations.....	46
3.2.2. Agreements of regional organizations	50
3.2.3. Critical appraisal of the current literature.....	56
3.3. Theoretical explanations of (non-) SaR behavior and research hypotheses	58
3.3.1. Liberalism: an optimist view of international relations.....	59
3.3.2. Rational choice theory: domestic constraints, costs and benefits of the (non-) SaR of multilateral agreements	65
3.3.3. Constructivism: ideas, shared values and the power of norms	71
3.4. Summary	80
4. Methodology	85
4.1. Variables and the measurement of states' behavior	86
4.1.1. Dependent variables	86
4.1.2. Independent variables.....	88
4.1.3. Other variables of interest	95
4.2. Measuring change: an event history analysis	98
4.3. Econometric model description, qualitative method and research design.....	100
4.3.1. Econometric model description: OLS regression and correlation analysis.....	100
4.3.2. Qualitative research methods	102

4.3.3. Research design	104
4.4. Summary	106
5. Empirical results: explaining states' behavior in the AU.....	109
5.1. Cascade SaR behavior of AU member states	111
5.1.1. Structural change argument.....	111
5.1.2. Arrival of new leaders: Mali's norm cascade under Alpha Oumar Konaré.....	113
5.1.3. Gabon's norm cascade under Jean Ping	115
5.2. Executive commitments: three snapshots.....	117
5.2.1. The Kampala Convention: substance and Uganda's commitments	118
5.2.2. Ideas and the paymaster attitude: Libya's role in the AU and leadership in ratifying the protocol on the African Investment Bank	122
5.2.3. Mauritius' leadership in the African Statistics Charter.....	127
5.3. Descriptive statistics and overall findings of the OLS regression.....	130
5.3.1. Model one: effects of ECOWAS, host country, unicameralism, landlocked country and small state on the (non-) signature of OAU/AU agreements	130
5.3.2. Model two: effects of ECOWAS, host country, unicameralism, landlocked country and small state on the (non-) ratification of OAU/AU agreements	132
5.3.3. Model three: estimating policy preferences of ECOWAS, host country, landlocked country and small state.....	135
5.4. Results of correlation analysis.....	138
5.4.1. Correlation between levels of economic development, foreign direct investment, democratization and ratification of Pan-African agreements.....	139
5.4.2. Correlation between constitutional constraints on the executive branch and the ratification of OAU/AU agreements	145
5.4.3. Correlation between intra-territorial conflict, population size and ratification rate of Pan-African agreements	147
5.4.4. Correlation between levels of corruption, human development, environmental vulnerability and ratification of Pan-African agreements	149

5.5. Authoritarian states' ratification of the African Charter on Democracy, Elections and Governance	151
5.5.1. The African Charter on Democracy, Elections and Governance with specific focus on Articles 10 (1) and (2).....	152
5.5.2. Ratification by authoritarian states as 'cheap talk': the case of Cameroon.....	155
5.6. Summary	160
6. Discussion	167
6.1. Plausibility check: relevance of hosting multilateral summits and comparison of findings ...	169
6.1.1. Relevance of hosting multilateral events.....	169
6.1.2. Comparing findings with those of other scholars.....	176
6.2. Theoretical discussion and Africa's challenge to international relations theory	182
6.2.1. Liberalism, rational choice theory and constructivism revisited: a theoretical discussion	183
6.2.2. Challenge of thinking about Africa's international relations from standard theories	186
6.3. Mixed methods research revisited: a methodological discussion.....	190
6.3.1. Objectivity	190
6.3.2. Reliability	192
6.3.3. Validity	193
6.4. Summary	195
7. Conclusion.....	199
7.1. Recalling the research questions, hypotheses and empirical answers	199
7.2. Theoretical implications and policy recommendations	208
7.2.1. Theoretical implications	208
7.2.2. Policy implications and recommendations: how to encourage the SaR of OAU/AU treaties?.....	213
7.3. Contribution to literature and future research	216
7.3.1. Contribution to literature	216

7.3.2. The way ahead: some tasks for future research.....	218
8. Appendix	221
Annex A: OAU/AU treaties	221
Annex B: Number of signatures of OAU/AU treaties.....	226
Annex C: Number of ratifications of OAU/AU treaties.....	228
Annex D: GDP, FDI flows and BTI's democracy status of African countries	230
Annex E: Executive constraints index of African countries.....	232
Annex F: Global Peace Index and population size of African countries.....	235
Annex G: Environmental Vulnerability Index (EVI), Human Development Index (HDI) and Corruption Perception Index (CPI) of African countries	237
Annex H: Coding African unicameralism, landlocked country, ECOWAS membership and small state	239
Annex I: Descriptive statistics of independent variables	241
9. References	243
9.1. Literature	243
9.2. Internet sources.....	275