

Content

Acknowledgements	7
Democratization and Security in Central and Eastern Europe and the Post-Soviet States	9
by David Bosold and Christian Achraimer
The Advantages of Latitude: Estonia's post-Communist Success Story	23
by Lucas Kello
Defending Democracy and the Atlantic Community? Central Europe Encounters Missile Defense	55
by Nik Hynek and Vit Stritecky
Authoritarianism versus Democracy in Belarus: Does National Identity Matter?	77
by Hanna Vasilevich
Passive versus Active Leverage: The European Union's Impact on the Democratization of Ukraine	101
by Svitlana A. Kobzar
Colored Revolutions in the wider Black Sea Region and the Geopoliticization of Democracy.	125
by Vsevolod Samokhalov
Kosovo, Three Years After Between New Momentum and Uncertainties: Assessing the Threats and Challenges Facing the EU Mission	149
by Pascal Fendrich
The European Union's Role in the Western Balkans and the South Caucasus: Potential Obstacles in its Support for Reform Processes.	173
by Dominik Tolksdorf

Ideologizing Democracy Promotion: Georgia's Impact on Post-Soviet Regional Security.	193
by George Khelashvili
ENP and post-Soviet transition in the South Caucasus: Linking Democracy and Security.	209
by Maria Raquel Freire and Lúcia Simão
Beyond Democratic Theory: Exploring Authoritarian Liberalisms in Central Asia.	229
by Assel Rustemova
Drawbacks and Limitations of the U.S. Democracy Promotion in Kyrgyzstan.	249
by Zhanyl Bokonbaeva
Public Communication and the Effectiveness of Democracy Promotion in Central Asia.	267
by Alexander Wolters
Concluding Remarks: Are There any Lessons to Learn?	293
by Petr Drulák	