

CONTENTS

List of tables and figures .....	11
Abbreviations .....	15
Acknowledgements .....	17
1 INTRODUCTION .....	19
1.1 An historical inquiry into the European public sphere .....	19
1.2 What is the European public sphere? .....	24
1.2.1 Democratic quality .....	25
1.2.2 European scope.....	26
1.3 What do we empirically know about the European public sphere to date? .....	28
1.3.1 European polity as a point of reference.....	34
1.3.2 Synchronicity .....	35
1.3.3 Mediators' transnational involvement .....	37
1.3.4 Transnational communication .....	38
1.3.5 European self-understanding .....	41
1.4 Cases in time and space.....	43
1.4.1 Time .....	43
1.4.2 Space.....	45
1.5 Sources .....	47
1.6 Organisation of my study.....	49
2 AN HISTORICAL ANALYSIS OF THE EUROPEAN PUBLIC SPHERE – THEORETICAL CONSIDERATIONS AND METHODOLOGICAL CHALLENGES .....	51
2.1 Theories of the European public sphere.....	51
2.1.1 The notion of the public sphere (“Öffentlichkeit”).....	51
Levels of the public sphere: encounters, assemblies, media.....	54
The discursive and the liberal model of the public sphere .....	55
Functions of the public sphere .....	56
Implications for empirical research .....	58
2.1.2 What is a European public sphere? .....	59
Does the European public sphere require a common language and common media?.....	59
Does the European public sphere require a European identity?...	61
Defining the European scope: what makes the public sphere European?.....	64
Terminology: European public sphere(s), Europeanisation, Transnationalisation.....	66
2.1.3 Historians' conceptualising of the European public sphere .....	70
Lingering structural traditions of European public communication .....	71
A rhetorically invoked “court of appeal” .....	73
The utopian traditions of the concept of Europe and the battle about meaning .....	74

2.1.4	Conceptualising a historical approach to the European public sphere.....	76
2.2	Methods of European public sphere research.....	78
2.2.1	Historical comparison and the analysis of transfers.....	78
	Historical comparison.....	80
	The analysis of transfers.....	82
2.2.2	Content analysis and the analysis of discourses.....	83
	Content analysis.....	83
	Discourse analysis.....	84
2.3	Operationalisation.....	85
2.3.1	European polity as a point of reference.....	85
2.3.2	Synchronicity.....	87
2.3.3	Mediators' transnational involvement.....	88
2.3.4	Transnational communication.....	89
2.3.5	The construction of European self-understanding.....	90
3	THE EUROPEAN PUBLIC SPHERE IN CONTEXT.....	92
3.1	European integration 1969–1991.....	93
3.1.2	Periodisations of European integration (1969–1991).....	95
3.1.3	A systematic periodisation of European integration 1969–1991 ...	98
	The horizontal dimension of integration.....	98
	The sectoral dimension of integration.....	99
	The vertical dimension of integration.....	101
	Conclusions: a systematic periodisation of European integration 1969–1991.....	102
3.2	European summits and the European Council.....	105
3.2.1	Origins and functions.....	105
3.2.2	Preparation, participation and procedure.....	107
3.2.3	The summits of The Hague, Paris, Brussels, Luxembourg and Maastricht.....	109
	The summit of The Hague 1969.....	109
	The summit of Paris 1974.....	111
	The Brussels European Council of 1978.....	114
	The Luxembourg European Council 1985.....	117
	The Maastricht European Council of 1991.....	119
3.3	"The Meaning of Europe". Perceptions of European integration.....	123
3.3.1	British perceptions of European integration.....	124
3.3.2	German perceptions of European integration.....	128
3.3.3	French perceptions of European integration.....	131
3.3.4	Comparative summary.....	133
3.4	Media structures and the production of European news.....	134
3.4.1	Quality newspapers in Britain, Germany and France compared..	135
	Quality newspapers in the British, German and French newspaper markets.....	135
	The traditions, the ownership and the politics of the individual newspapers.....	140
3.4.2	Reporting European integration and European summits.....	149
	The "Brussels newsbeat" – reporting on European integration....	149

Commenting on European integration .....	151
Reporting and commenting on the summits .....	152
4 THE DEVELOPMENT OF EUROPEAN PUBLIC COMMUNICATION: COMPARING THE COVERAGE OF EUROPEAN SUMMITS 1969–1991 .....	155
4.1 European polity as a point of reference.....	155
4.1.1 The uneven growth of EC coverage .....	157
4.1.2 The similarity of EC coverage .....	159
4.1.3 The convergence of EC coverage .....	161
4.1.4 Growing transparency about European affairs? .....	162
4.2 Synchronicity: The same issues at the same time at the same level of relevance.....	163
4.2.1 Europe as the most relevant issue: front page headlines and editorials .....	163
The fall and rise of the relevance of EC issues .....	163
Similar relevance of EC issues.....	165
Convergence over time.....	167
4.2.2 Synchronicity of issues in European public discourse.....	170
Commonality of issues: the same policies discussed at the same time.....	170
Similarity of relevance: the same issues discussed similarly frequently .....	172
Bilateral similarity: the same issues discussed at the same time at the same level of relevance .....	173
4.2.3 Summary .....	175
4.3 The mediators of European public communication: structural pre- conditions for transnational communication and societal participation..	176
4.3.1 The mediators of European public communication: an overview..	177
4.3.2 European correspondents, foreign correspondents and commentators .....	181
EC correspondents: continuity and share of EC reporting and commentary .....	182
Foreign correspondents: geographical scope, continuity and share of EC news and commentary .....	187
Commentators: continuity and share of EC commentary .....	192
4.3.3 External authors and interviewees .....	195
Transnational communication.....	195
Professions.....	196
Representation .....	199
Experience and attitudes.....	201
4.3.4 Conclusions.....	205
4.4 Transnational communication .....	206
4.4.1 Horizontal references to the EC member states.....	207
4.4.2 Vertical references to the European institutions .....	212
4.4.3 Societal references .....	215
4.4.4 Conclusions .....	219
4.5 European self-understanding: the construction of a transnational sense of community?.....	220

4.5.1	The Summit of The Hague 1969. Europe as a vision.....	224
	Interest: a community of interest .....	225
	Trust: suspicions but commitment to solidarity .....	228
	Identification: the heyday of progressive Europeanism.....	230
	Summary: a European sense of community shaped by idealism..	232
4.5.2	The Summit of Paris 1974. Europe as an instrument in the face of the oil crisis .....	233
	Interest: the need for cooperation .....	233
	Trust: the limits of trust and solidarity.....	235
	Identification: Europe vs. the US? Britain in Europe?.....	238
	Summary: separate debates, but community of interest.....	242
4.5.3	The European Council of Brussels 1978. Europe as an instrument: money .....	243
	Interest: economic ideas and the calculation of interest .....	243
	Trust: the limits of trust and (monetary) solidarity.....	248
	Identification: European unity or confederation? .....	251
	Summary: political and national cleavages.....	255
4.5.4	The European Council of Luxembourg 1985. Europe as an instrument: the market .....	256
	Interest: an economic community.....	256
	Trust: scepticism vis-à-vis governments and solidarity via the market.....	260
	Identification: a vision revitalised? .....	261
	Summary: permissive consensus? .....	265
4.5.5	The European Council of Maastricht 1991. Europe: the threat of the super-state .....	265
	Interest: politicised conflict of interests.....	265
	Trust: cultural clichés and solidarity beyond the EC .....	272
	Identification: national self-assertion in the face of the super-state .....	277
	Summary: the politicisation of Europe .....	285
4.5.6	Conclusions .....	286
4.6	Summary of the results.....	288
5	CONCLUSIONS: TRACING THE EUROPEAN PUBLIC SPHERE .....	292
5.1	Changes in European public communication 1969–1991 .....	292
5.1.1	European polity as a point of reference .....	292
5.1.2	Synchronicity .....	293
5.1.3	Mediators' transnational involvement.....	294
5.1.4	Transnational communication.....	295
5.1.5	European self-understanding: a European sense of community?..	296
5.2	Europe's second generation? European public communication at the summits between 1969 and 1991.....	298
5.3	Explanations: the impact of context.....	300
5.4	Conclusions: What do these results imply for the debate about the European public sphere and democracy?.....	303

SOURCES .....	307
1. Newspaper commentary (analysed in chapter 4.5.) .....	307
2. News articles on the summits quoted (in chapter 4.3.) .....	314
3. Further Newspaper Sources .....	316
4. Interviews .....	316
5. Audiovisual Sources .....	317
6. Official Documents .....	317
REFERENCES .....	319
ANNEX .....	345
DEUTSCHSPRACHIGE ZUSAMMENFASSUNG .....	355
RÉSUMÉ EN FRANÇAIS .....	358