

Contents

Tables and Diagrams.....	12
Acronyms	13
1. Introduction: Global Governance and Global Policy Networks	17
1.1 Relevance of Networks for Sustainable Development.....	17
1.2 Course of Argument.....	21
1.3 Research Method	27
1.3.1 Reason for the selection of Five Type II Partnerships	27
1.3.2 How to Collect Information on Networks.....	28
1.4 Effectiveness of Network Governance: How to Measure?	33
1.4.1 Defining Effectiveness	33
1.4.2 Models for Measuring Effectiveness of Governance.....	35
2. The Academic Debate on Network Governance	39
2.0 Phase 0: Why Global Policy Networks Came Into Being	40
2.0.1 Energy Matters in Global Environmental Governance.....	40
2.0.1.1 The Role of Sustainable Energy for Development	41
2.0.1.2 Social, Environmental, and Economic Sustainability	44
2.0.1.3 Macroeconomic Solutions to Climate Change and Sustainable Development	50
2.0.2 Global Environmental Governance and Network Governance Theory/-ies.....	56
2.0.2.1 Defining Governance	57
2.0.2.2 Defining Networks.....	60
2.0.2.3 Networks in Global Governance.....	63
2.0.2.4 Giddens' Structuration Theory	67
2.0.2.5 Governance and New Economic Institutionalism/ Transaction Cost Economics.....	70
2.1 Phase I: What Has to be Considered When Global Policy Networks Emerge?	74
2.1.1 The Framework: Rationalist Games and Construed Systems.....	74
Conclusion of Phase I: "You must lead the horses to the water again and again and again to make them drink!"	79
2.2 Phase II: What has to be Considered When Global Policy Networks Start Activities?	80
2.2.1 Game Theory: Models of Market Failures.....	80
2.2.1.1 Battle of the Sexes	82
2.2.1.2 Assurance Game	84

2.2.1.3 Prisoner's Dilemma	85
2.2.2 Resource Dependency: Resources For Action	86
2.2.2.1 Resource Dependency	87
2.2.2.2 Actors' Rationales and Resources	88
2.2.2.3 Social Capital As a Resource	90
2.2.2.4 Knowledge As a Resource	93
Conclusion of Phase II: "To Have the Cake and Eat It and Even Make It Grow!"	102
2.2.3 Excursus: Beyond Phases – Strategic Action of Network Governance	104
2.2.3.1 Defining Strategy	105
2.2.3.2 How to Apply a Network Governance Strategy	108
2.2.3.3 Theses on Strategic Action of Network Governance	110
2.3 Phase III: What has to be Considered When Global Policy Networks Produce Long-term Outputs?	124
2.3.1 System Theory: Governance From Within	124
2.3.1.1 Systemic Knowledge Management	128
2.3.2 Systemic Organizational Theory: Fostering Self-Organizing Dynamics	129
2.3.2.1 Defining Self-Organizing Dynamics	129
2.3.2.2 How Can Systems Self-Organize?	130
2.3.2.3 Self-Organizing Dynamics in Political Systems	135
Conclusion of Phase III: "Lunch must be – almost – free!"	138
3. The Jazzier Dance of Partnerships	141
3.0 Phase 0: The Run-up to Global Policy Networks	141
3.0.1 The Series of World Conferences on Sustainable Development	141
3.0.1.1 The WSSD and the CSD Process: The Partnership Approach	144
3.1 Phase I: The Emergence of Global Policy Networks	148
3.1.1 History	148
3.1.2 Governance Structures	152
3.1.3 Actors: Leaders and Partners	160
3.1.3.1 Excursus: Private actors' rationale to cooperate for sustainable development	161
3.1.3.2 Leadership Among Equals	166
Conclusion of Phase I	172
3.2 Phase II: Activities of Global Policy Networks	173
3.2.1 Financing	173
3.2.2 Activities	176
Conclusion of Phase II	194

3.2.3 Excursus: Beyond Phases: Functions of Network Governance	196
3.2.3.1 Integration	197
3.2.3.2 Interest Mediation	202
3.2.3.3 Knowledge Sharing.....	207
3.2.3.4 Partner Selection	212
3.2.3.5 Coordination.....	216
3.2.3.6 Implementation	220
3.3 Phase III: Long-term Strategies and Outputs of Global Policy
Networks	224
3.3.1 Strategies	224
3.3.1.1 GVEP's Strategy Development Process	224
3.3.1.2 REEEP's Work Program and Communication Strategy	231
3.3.1.3 GNESD's Communication Strategy	233
3.3.1.4 EUEI's Proceedings Instead of a Strategy	234
3.3.1.5 REN21's Involvement with Strategies	235
3.3.2 Stability.....	235
3.3.2.1 The Future of Global Policy Networks.....	241
3.3.3 Effectiveness.....	242
3.3.3.1 Effectiveness In Terms of Progress Towards Ex ante Goals.....	242
3.3.3.2 Capacities and Limits of Global Policy Networks	250
3.3.3.3 Success Factors For Network Effectiveness.....	253
3.3.4 Efficiency	258
3.3.4.1 The Efficiency of Partnership Action	258
3.3.4.2 Preferences for Management Interventions or Self-organizing Dynamics	264
Conclusion of Phase III	268
4. Analyzing Global Policy Networks: The Emperor's New Clothes?	271
4.1 The Story So Far: Comparing Network Governance in Five Type II Partnerships.....	271
4.2 Exploring the Effectiveness of Global Network Governance	275
4.3 "Nothing On At All"?	283
Appendix	285
Annex I: Interview Guideline	285
Annex II: Interviews	292
Annex III: Redundancy and the Cost-Effectiveness Ratio.....	300
Annex IV: Interrelatedness of Network Functions.....	302
Annex V: How To Harness Network Governance for Sustainable Development	307
Bibliography, Documents, Internet Sources	314