

Contents

List of Tables	xii
List of Maps	xiii
Acknowledgements	xv
Preface	xvii
CHAPTER I
Delineating the Playing Field: Virtual Borders and Imagined Geographies	I
1.1 Focus of the Study	5
1.2 The Puzzle of Shifting Borders in the National Imagination	6
1.3 Elite Clashes and International Constraints in Determining Border Shifts	II
1.4 Importance of the Study	14
1.5 Tracking Causes and Variables	17
1.6 Plan of the Book	26
CHAPTER 2
Boundary Mapping and Territorialization of Identity	33
2.1 Existing Theories of Nationalism and How They Explain Borders	34
2.2 A Theoretical Framework of Virtual Border Shifts	45
2.3 Delineating Borders in Nationalist Discourse and a Nation's Mental Mapping	53
2.4 The Two Overlapping Maps of the Albanian Nation	57

CHAPTER 3

From Nation-Building to State Formation: How Virtual Mapping Intersected with Recognized Borders in the Albanian Imagination	67
3.1 Albanian Identity Construction and How It Mapped onto Territory Pre-1880	69
3.2 The Map Resulting from Albanian Elite Struggles During the Years 1878–1899 and 1911–1912: Hypotheses and Predictions	76
3.3 The Mapping of Albanian Boundaries from the League of Prizren to Independence	80
3.4 Great Power Geopolitics and Its Effect on Shaping the Newly Created Albania's Borders: Shifts from 1912 to 1917	90
3.5 Elite Struggles, Ethnic Underbidding and Map Contraction from 1912 to 1917	95
3.6 National Borders as Perceived by the Masses on Both Sides of the Border from 1878 to the First World War	99
3.7 Elite Struggles, Ethnic Underbidding and Map Contraction from 1912 to the First World War Among the Albanian Elite	108

CHAPTER 4

The Interwar Period and the Shifting of Virtual Borders at Elite and Mass Level in Albania and Abroad: From Contractionary to Expansionary and Vice-Versa	111
4.1 External Constraints on the Albanians in the Interwar Years and the Effects on Map Weaving	112
4.2 Elite Struggles and the Outcome for the Albanian Map in the Interwar Period	116
4.3 Imagined National Borders: “Bottom-Up” Changes in Map Perception in the Interwar Period	121
4.4 The Imagined Nation Among the Ethnic Kin: The Expansionary Map in Kosovo in the Interwar Period	130
4.5 Conclusion	137

CHAPTER 5

From “Greater Albania” During the Second World War to Contractionary Borders in the Communist Era	141
5.1 Direct International Intervention During the Second World War and the Redrawing of the Map to Create “Greater Albania”	142
5.2 Elite Struggles and the Irredentist Outcome	147
5.3 Principal Map Shifts During the Early Communist Period in Albania and Their Impact on Visualizing the Nation’s Borders	150
5.4 Consolidation of National Communism in Albania and Its Effects on the Imagined Map and the Visualization of Borders	154
5.5 Perception of Borders Among Ethnic Albanians in Yugoslavia During the Communist Era	167
5.6 Mass Media in Albania and Its Role in (Re)shaping Mental Boundaries on Both Sides of the State Border During the Communist Era	172
5.7 Ideologizing History to Create a Perennial Map: Instrumental Use of a National Hero in Textbooks and How It Has Impacted Virtual Border Shifts	176

CHAPTER 6

Reimagining Territorial Landscape and Mental Borders in the Post-Communist and Democratic Transition Era	183
6.1 Competing Elite Projects on National Boundaries in Albania During Democratic Transition	188
6.2 External Constraints on Albanian Transition and the Resulting National Map	196
6.3 Map-Shaping Political Projects Among the Albanians of Kosovo and Macedonia	198
6.4 Alternative Map Configuration and Virtual Borders Seen From Below: Kosovo and Other Albanian-Speaking Regions in Albania’s Textbooks During the 1990s	209
6.5 Mass Media and Its Role in (Re)shaping Mental Boundaries on Both Sides of the State Border in the Post-Communist Period	215

6.6 Virtual Borders as Imagined by the Masses on Both Sides of the State Border in the Post-Communist Period	223
Conclusion	231
References	249
Index	265